35 Units in Rodeo Parade

Queens and clowns and an army band will highlight the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo parade tomorrow night. The parade is one of the preliminary events of the rodeo with performances Thursday through Sunday.

The parade will begin at 8 p.m. on Davis boulevard, in front of Bridger Heating and Plumbing. Its route will be south to North Street east to Stoddard, south to Front, east to Kingshighway, south to Malone and east to the Midtowner Village Shopping center.

According to Bill Bradley, parade chairman, more than 35 units will be in the parade. Color guards from the air force and marines will be in the parade

Nixon Statement Spurs New Tate Mistrial Plea

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Sharon Tate murder trial say they'll ask again for a mistrial today because President Nixon said defendant Charles M. Manson is "guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders without reason."

One of the lawyers, Paul Fitzgerald, said of Nixon's comments: "We know this is unprecedented in the history of jurisprudence. Seldom if ever has a president taken an interest in a state murder trial."

"I am shocked and bewildered," Fitzgerald said. "If the President of the United States is going to say this, then the ball game is over."

Nixon issued a statement later in Washington saying that he didn't intend to speculate about Manson's guilt or innocence.

"The defendants should be presumed to be innocent at this stage of their trial," he said.

Nixon's original remarks, made to newsmen at Denver, reached the courthouse at lunch recess Monday. When court resumed, all attorneys approached the bench for a conference with Superior Court Judge Charles Older. Court sources said Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, made a motion for a mistrial on the basis of prejudicial publicity. He was joined by attorneys Daye Shinn and Ronald Huges.

The motion, Fitzgerald said later, was "denied without prejudice," meaning it could be renewed at a later date.

"The judge was alarmed," said Fitzgerald, "and the judge's main concern was to verify what the President had said. The judge said he wasn't sure that the President had said that."

He said the judge who had no public comment intended he would rather rule on the matter after studying the President's statement.

Fitzgerald said the defense fears the jury, although sequestered, may be "tainted" by the comments, and possibly the judge as well.

He said that although the jury doesn't read newspapers or see television accounts of the case, "there are many possible leaks." Among them, he said, are visits from jurors' spouses on weekends and the chance a juror might glance at a newstand headline while riding to and from court.

Nixon's remarks in Denver came as he arrived for a conference on law enforcement. His lengthy statement to newsmen included this comment:

"As we look at the situation today, I think the main concern that I have is the attitudes that are created among many of our younger people and also perhaps older people as well, in which they tend to glorify and to make heroes out of those who engage in criminal activities."

"This is not done intentionally by the press. It is not done intentionally by radio and television, I know. It is done perhaps because people want to read or see that kind of story."

"I noted, for example the coverage of the Charles Manson case when I was in Los Angeles was front page every day in the papers. It usually got a couple of minutes in the evening news."

"Here is a man who was guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders without reason."

Manson, 35, and three women followers—Leslie Van Houten, 20, Susan Atkins, 21, and Patricia Krenwinkel, 22—are on trial for the slayings of Miss Tate and six others last August. Manson also is charged in a separate case with the slaying last summer of a Malibu musician, Gary Hinman.

In his remarks, Nixon further said of Manson: "Here is a man, yet who, as far as the coverage was concerned, appeared to be rather a glamorous figure."

Late Monday, Fitzgerald said he couldn't understand the President's remarks about "glamor" since most media had depicted Manson as "a

Council Urges Storm Sewers on Street Project

The city council passed a resolution urging the state highway department to change its proposed drainage system on the highway 61 Main Street widening project.

City Manager Raymet Miller told the council that the planned open ditch type of drainage is not in line with an urban project and that it would be poor planning. Miller will propose a plan to the highway department for the use of storm sewer type drainage.

In other business the council took under consideration a request from Frisco railroad to raise the speed limit for trains going through town.

The request from Frisco said that the speed limit should be raised from 12 miles per hour.

The council approved final plans for the Wedgewood Acres subdivision. The planning and zoning commission approved the plans last week.

The paving of Trotter Street from Scott to Stoddard was also approved by the council.

A citizen's band radio operators group asked the council for permission to use the old fire department siren in storm warning. The council said it needed more information and asked the group to try to coordinate their activities with the auxiliary police.

Contests Swell Voting

Hot and humid temperatures this morning were in keeping with the campaigning that has taken place for the Scott County Democratic primary election today. No Republicans are seeking county office.

Strong campaigning that resulted from six county races is credited with bringing a large voter turnout. At noon today a vote tally of Sikeston precincts showed 1,109 voters casting ballots.

In the last off-election year vote the noon tally showed 762 votes by noon. That was in 1966. In 1964, a presidential primary, there were 1,076 votes cast by noon. In the 1968 primary, which also included the presidential vote, there 935 votes cast in Sikeston precincts by noon.

In the county, primaries are being held to elect county court presiding judge, associate judges of districts one and two, county clerk, circuit clerk, prosecuting attorney, recorder, county collector, treasurer, probate judge, magistrate judge, circuit judge, along with respective committeemen and women of townships.

Races are being waged for county clerk, circuit clerk, collector, presiding judge and the two associate judges positions.

The Democratic primary ballot is headed by a race for U.S. Senator Stuart Symington's post. Symington is seeking reelection.

State Auditor Haskell Holman is opposed by Donald L. Cummins of St. Louis.

State Representative Tony Heckmeyer of Sikeston is opposed by James Westrich Oran in the 157th district.

Voting by Sikeston precincts at noon today:

Police station, 209; Ethridge Tire, 71; Lincoln School, 150; Armory, 212; Imperial Bowling, 100; Sikeston Motor Company, 81; Lewis Furniture Store, 103; Presley Chevrolet, 183.

Symington Blames Domestic Woes on Overseas Spending

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Inflation and growing unemployment in America are caused largely by "our vast overseas expenditures," Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Monday.

"These foreign political and military commitments should be tailored to modernity as against tradition," he said.

Symington said more than $100 million a day the country spends overseas should be applied to domestic needs.

He made the statement in remarks prepared for delivery at a Boone County Democratic rally.

Hearing in Shooting Set For Aug. 17

NEW MADRID — Preliminary hearing has been set for Aug. 17 for Andrew Richardson, 19, of Howardville, charged with felonious assault in connection with the shooting Saturday of Willie Wheeler on a Howardville street.

Judge Leo Hedgepeth set $3,000 bond for Richardson pending the hearing after he appeared Monday in magistrate court through his attorney.

Wheeler is in a Memphis hospital with a right eye wound.

Sentence on Check Charge

BENTON — Harold Ray "Buddy" Smith, 19, was sent to the state penitentiary in Jefferson City Thursday morning on a bad check charge. He was sentenced to two years.

Charges of burglary and stealing were dismissed.

The bogus check offense occurred March 14. Smith was accused of giving a bad check of $20 to the A. and B. Oil Company in Sikeston.

Seniors to Operate Concessions

The high school senior class will be in charge of concessions at this year's Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, Thursday through Sunday. Seniors interested in helping may contact Bill Brannun at 471-2782. Proceeds will go to the class. Between 30-40 seniors are needed.

Mayor Lee said the city is paying for the paving of intersections and alleys at a cost to the city of approximately $10,500. She said the property owners are paying for the paving adjoining their property.

Reutzell said it will take four to six weeks to complete the paving.

POLITICIANS, POLITICAL SUPPORTERS AND VOTERS were swarming into Sikeston today for the primary elections. Forecasters, although they would not predict a number, believe today's voter turnout will be one of the largest in recent years. There are 14,000 registered voters in Scott county. At the ballot boxes at Lewis Furniture Company on West Malone are from left, standing were Mrs. Esther Taylor, 807 Mary, and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Keller, 1135 West Murray Lane, Mrs. Gladys Johnson, 510 Malcolm, seated, is an election clerk.

Weather Hotter Than State Primary Races

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The weather was hotter than the election in most of Missouri and the total vote was 1.8 million.

For U. S. senator three American Party candidates filed: Gene Chapman, St. Louis businessman, who switched from the Republican party at the last minute; Ralph A. DePugh of Independence, father of the convicted Minuteman leader, Robert Boliver DePugh, and Lawrence "Red" Petty, a carpenter in Overland, a St. Louis suburb, where he once ran for mayor.

The American Party also fielded candidates in five congressional races, although one withdrew, and in several legislative districts.

The toll road proposition was pushed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to replace his 1967 law that was declared unconstitutional by the state Supreme Court in 1968 on grounds state highway funds could not be diverted for toll road use. The proposition has been opposed editorially by many Missouri newspapers.

One Missouri legislator, congressman, Rep. William L. Clay, D-St. Louis, was elected 93 Republicans and 70 Democrats have no primary opposition in the 1st District of northern St. Louis, a heavily Negro and Democratic area.

The rest of the incumbents—eight Democrats and one Republican—appeared fairly safe but a sharp contest developed in the 8th District of central Missouri.

There Rep. Richard H. Ichord, Houston Democrat when state auditor was the only seeking a sixth term, was state-wide race. An estimated challenged by Clyde Wilson of 2.8 million were eligible to vote.

They are Sen. John W. Joynet, D-St. Louis, in the 2nd, and Richard M. Webster, R-Carhage, in the 32nd of southwestern Missouri where Webster has been trying to build a political base to run for governor in 1972.

In the House, 18 Democrats and five Republicans were re-elected automatically with neither primary nor general election opposition.

Polls opened this morning at 6 a.m. and close throughout the state at 7 p.m. under a new uniform closing time. They formally stayed open until sunset in rural areas.

A turnout of about 787,000 has been predicted, or about 34 per cent more than in the last off-year election four years ago, when state auditor was the only seeking a sixth term, was state-wide race. An estimated challenged by Clyde Wilson of 2.8 million were eligible to vote.

Senate Nears Vote on Contract Announcement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appears near a showdown vote on whether to revoke a congressman's cherished prerogative to announce defense contracts awarded to firms in his district.

When a congressman makes such an announcement, argues Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., it leaves the impression of influence peddling.

Williams' amendment, attached to the $19.2 billion military procurement bill, would require all defense contract awards to be announced first by the Pentagon.

Under present practice, the Defense Department gives advance notice to the representative or senator who makes the announcement—whether or not he had anything to do with the contract.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania disagreed with Williams. He said he considers himself an ambassador to Washington and intends to continue telling his constituents what's going on.

Williams said that because it is a crime to award a contract on the basis of political pressure or influence, the practice of congressmen appearing to take credit for a contract award is doubly misleading.

With its vote on the Williams amendment taking first priority, the Senate has not yet begun serious consideration of an amendment likely to prove the first major obstacle to passage of the military bill: a move to limit expansion of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

That amendment, sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., would cut from the bill plans to expand the ABM system to a second phase at two new sites.

It would retain $1.27 billion to continue development of the first ABM phase.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

We are told by an expert at the coffee table that when a person's outgo exceeds his income-- his upkeep is his downfall!

As most Americans understand it, the federal Social Security system was never intended to be more than a supplement to old age retirement plans. Private pensions and private savings are basic the perpetuation of the private property, free enterprise system, as we have known it in this country.

However, the Council of State Chambers of Commerce warns, "The future of private pension plans is jeopardized as the Social Security program with its rapidly rising taxable wage base, tax rate, and employer-employee costs increasingly shifts from its original purpose as a basic floor protection to a basic retirement plan. Capital formation in this country can be threatened if private pension programs are superseded by an expanding Social Security program. Private pension programs and private savings are now a major source of capital for economic growth."

We read daily of billions of dollars that must be spent by industry to meet the needs of our citizens. If these billions of dollars of investment capital cannot be secured from private citizens, where is industry and business to get them? Once private citizens become wards of the government, industry and business must also become a ward of the government, forced to go with hat in hand to the taxpayer for capital to build new plants.

Somehow, we don't believe we are ready for this although there are a few among us who advocate the government run everything.

Mayor Taylor Noles says politics differ from Poker-In politics you play first and at afterwards.

A friend of ours says that most people, simply by applying a few sound principles, could think more effectively than they do. Too many of us are awed by experts, preferring to let them do our thinking for us. We fail to realize three fundamental principles about thinking, which, if recognized, will strengthen our confidence in our own ability to think:

1. Knowledge doesn't come from books-- it comes from human observations and deductions. That's how it got in the books in the first place. The most important knowledge we possess comes from observing and thinking, not from reading books or listening to professors.

2. It's always worthwhile to try to think for yourself. Study the available facts and apply your own imagination and logic. Sometimes you can find the right answers-- or a perfectly good answer-- despite lack of experience.

3. Be wary of the "expert." If what he says doesn't agree with what you have seen and deduced yourself, make allowance for the fact that he may be wrong. Books and experts often are.

The American National Red Cross announced that, "The executive council of the AFL - CIO has issued a statement backing American Red Cross efforts to gain humane treatment for U. S. prisoners of war in North Vietnam." The executive council has said: "We support the efforts of the American Red Cross and will do all we can to help American prisoners of war and their families, who have our deepest sympathies."

The Colonel said: "A loafer is always in the way of busy people."

You get tired of constantly trying to pull your boat upstream, but you have to keep it. If you lay down your oars and rest, you will drift downstream farther in an hour than you can recover in a day.

BEWARE EXTREMISTS OF LEFT & WHAA?

After all these years, it is becoming almost respectable to suggest that maybe, just maybe, there might be some cases of civil disobedience in which those using the tactic have not advanced the cause of freedom, progress and the intellectual way of life.

There is some question about the precise turning point. Possibly it was when an activist for academic freedom encouraged a college to waive entrance requirements by holding a switchblade at the throat of the registrar-- as one did recently.

Or maybe it took place about the three or four hundredth time that young heroes of direct action marched into a classroom somewhere and tossed the instructor out on his ear. Perhaps it was during one of the moments when a college administration caved in to the non-negotiable and absolute demands of a small band of arsonists-- then found itself facing renewed extortion for a brand-new set of demands. But I doubt it.

No, a more likely turning point, an event that made it possible to deplore such excess without being unfashionable, occurred when a bunch of Young Americans for Freedom heckled a standard leftist happening by parading around it with signs saying, "If You Like Hitler, You'll Love SDS."

This mad-dog violence by conservatives was followed by cruel and reactionary remarks in several legislatures. Some "repressive state legislators"-- to use Time magazine's term - even went so far as to suggest that perhaps a group staging a collective skull-busting on a campus should be regarded in a similar manner to a group conducting the same sort of activity in a waterfront saloon-- regardless of the number of college credits and ideals and the former group may boast.

Such frightfulness led Time to comment recently that "unless moderates intervene, campus freedom and revolutionary reform may well be sacrificed to left and right extremists."

And so the time has finally come when those Time calls moderates can speak out against all the left and right extremism that has been causing all the trouble-- it says here. In the context of this discussion "moderates" can be defined as liberals not toting cans of gasoline or clubbing anybody.

Until now, it has not been easy for such liberals. Though sincerely devoted to free speech and rational debate, they have found it difficult either to enjoy their freedoms amid growing chaos and violence or to condemn forcefully the people responsible for the violence. That's because the people responsible have been, with rare exceptions, (a) self-proclaimed progressives and (b) rebels against the status quo.

It is an item of faith with too many liberals that anything done by a movement or individual bearing the above labels is laudable or at the very least condonable.

Back in the twenties and thirties American liberals sent back glowing reports of Soviet progress and enlightenment at a time when Stalin was murdering millions of innocents. Observers who mentioned the butchery at all were apt to pass it off with the remark that "one cannot make an omelet without breaking eggs."

These individuals, though advocates of freedom, were not really too concerned about any threat to it until Hitler started making his own omelet. Then they did good work in awakening the West to the menace of totalitarian dictatorship.

But it is still hard to see why they waited until they had a so-called right-wing example before they began to speak out against secret police, concentration camps, mass murder and all the other trappings of dictatorship. Aggression and genocide are equally monstrous crimes whether they are committed under a red flag or a black flag.

How much better prepared would the West democracies have been to face the two dictators, if the liberal correspondents and intellectuals had begun their warnings about totalitarianism in the days of Stalin's rise to the top?

We have seen the same ideological blind spot in the unwillingness of many otherwise enlightened liberals to recognize the danger of the civil disobedience or direct action methods. The idea of massive and deliberate violations of laws as a form of social blackmail is, on the face of it, a pernicious and destructive concept.

Yet when civil disobedience began to break out into criminal violence, all who noted this fact were branded as racists and enemies of free speech by liberal spokesmen. Because the lawlessness was staged for causes by individuals who wrapped themselves in progressive ideology, it became the fashion in many liberal circles to excuse or even praise crime for conscience sake. And as the crimes grew, the element of conscience involved shrank to the vanishing point, while apologists scrambled about wildly trying to rationalize the brutality and senseless destruction.

Now that the majority of society is beginning to react to the bullying boorishness of the revolting few, maybe the liberals who have feared speaking out can do so. These warnings will no doubt be against generalized "hate" or a manufactured balance of "left and right extremist." This will allow the truly facile to slip comfortably into an eventual stand that right extremism was the real cause of all those broken skulls and burned buildings produced by the direct action of the way-out left.

If that sounds improbable, recall that Arthur Schlesinger wrote a history of the Kennedy administration which included a chapter about Dallas, hate, the radical right and so on, but failed even to mention the name of the Marxist who shot the president. Distortion of vision by ideology damages far more than perspective.

Such inability to see any menace to freedom unless it appears on the right leaves the liberal opinion leader at least half blind. Given the influence of articulate liberalism on the mass media and on the intellectual climate, this blindness has serious consequences for the entire nation.

Experienced. In Grand Prairie, Texas, while filling in an application for work at the Chance-Vought aircraft plant, an applicant came to the section on military background, answered the "Dates in Service" blank with: "Girls from Memphis, Tenn. to Hot Springs, Ark."

Someone has estimated that there are now some 60 million hangers in the United States every week. If this figure is anywhere near correct, it raises the suspicion that some sneaky fellows are getting more than their fair share.

The question also has been raised by science as to whether foul air may not drive some people to drink excessively. Rats were subjected for three weeks to auto exhaust fumes typically breathed by Los Angeles human residents during rush hours. At the start of the tests the rats all preferred to drink plain water. At the end they all preferred to drink alcoholic solutions.

Motorists can make a valuable contribution to the continuing fight against traffic accidents by sharing the road with others, it was noted today by Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

"Driving a car in today's complex traffic is a great responsibility," Hockaday stated. "Human lives depend upon how a motorist operated his vehicle. Any measure that can be taken to save lives must be taken. Courtesy is one of the more important measures."

The Patrol Superintendent pointed out that courtesy can mean different things to different people. For one person, the extent of courtesy may be to allow another driver to squeeze into a long line of traffic. To another, it may mean letting the other driver have his way even when that driver is in the wrong. The latter is the type of courtesy that is needed for self-protection, in traffic.

"Courtesy does more than encourage others to share the road," the Colonel continued. "It serves as the first line of defense against the mistakes and rudeness of other drivers. When a driver is quick to be courteous, he knows what is going on around him, and is in a better position to protect himself."

"There is no substitute for courtesy as a means of preventing accidents," Hockaday continued. "I urge every motorist, therefore, to contribute to the continuing fight against traffic crashes by being courteous to others at every opportunity."

All is not serene — One evening last week I attended a meeting upon the invitation of a group of concerned Marshall citizens. They are concerned about racial discrimination in regard to housing in our city. They are concerned because they feel that people with rental property — houses, apartments, rooms — are not aware of and/or briefed on the federal law concerning fair housing.

First off I wish to point out the group was not composed of a bunch of crackpot do-gooders bent on sticking their noses into affairs that should not concern them. There were leaders of the black community in attendance who expressed themselves freely and made the point they do not want to have Marshall experience any racial strife.

SHOULD TAKE ALL OR NONE

The federal government announced recently it would add twenty-five Missouri counties, where there is no free food program, to its present list of counties, and that in these twenty-five it would furnish the food and pay all costs of distribution.

Monroe County pays storage, distribution and other costs with county taxpayers money, with the food provided by the federal government.

Many of the counties now being added are as able, or more able, to pay those costs, as Monroe County.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The budget pinch has stirred the brass hats and bureaucrats, all too typically, to scramble for economies that won't interfere with their special privileges.

The brass, for instance, want to cut out social programs on military bases, such as day camps for underprivileged youngsters and employment programs for disadvantaged youths. But no move has been made to reduce the number of enlisted men who serve as chauffeurs, waiters, bartenders, orderlies and handymen for the brass.

The Pentagon has also persuaded President Nixon to pull 20,000 troops out of Korea, where living conditions are austere and the duty is rugged. But scarcely a man will be kept in Europe. These home from Japan and Germany, thunderbolts of war, more than where Americans live in luxury.

The brass, quite naturally, are keeping the Red Army and the geisha houses of Tokyo to the grim garbages on the Korean demarcation line.

But 20,000 troops could be spared more logically from Japan which has no demarcation line to guard. South Korea also around to back their play. A desperately needs the $160 million that the troop troops, say, to man the nuclear withdrawal will cost its struggling economy. The Japanese economy, in contrast, is booming.

Along Korea's 38th parallel, pleasant fortress for the of course, the terrain is rough, American military since the end the weather harsh, the nights of World War II, and the brass menacing. Nearby Seoul offers no wish to leave. They live more attractions for Americans, unbelievably well within easy still standing watch on the Rhine peace time army in Europe, of joined the 62,000 U.S. troops spots.

GOLDEN GHETTOS

Military bases form American enclaves with schools, church, movie houses and clubs to make living gracious. Around cities like Frankfurt, there are noisy beer halls and sprawling red light districts. As Senator Stephen Young, D-Ohio, has said: "The 20,000 troops should be pulled officers never had it so good. out of Europe, where American They and their wives and garrisons have become an absurd anachronism. Yet 295,000 U.S. live high on the hog."

game of military make-believe that does little but fill the continental coffers at U.S. expense. In theory, they are stationed in Europe to prevent an armed takeover by the Russians. But most observers think the Soviet conventional war threat to Europe now is minimal, to say the least. Most of the troops are stationed in West Germany, which is about to sign a non-aggression pact with the Kremlin.

No one really believes that four American divisions plus a few additional scattered units, are going to intimidate the Red Army, which could throw 175 divisions into a European conflict. The Russians have a greater respect, no doubt, for austere and the duty is rugged. But scarcely a man will be kept in Europe. These home from Japan and Germany, thunderbolts of war, more than where Americans live in luxury.

The brass, quite naturally, are keeping the Red Army and the geisha houses of Tokyo to the grim garbages on the Korean demarcation line.

But 20,000 troops could be spared more logically from Japan which has no demarcation line to guard. South Korea also around to back their play. A desperately needs the $160 million that the troop troops, say, to man the nuclear withdrawal will cost its struggling economy. The Japanese economy, in contrast, is booming.

Along Korea's 38th parallel, pleasant fortress for the of course, the terrain is rough, American military since the end the weather harsh, the nights of World War II, and the brass menacing. Nearby Seoul offers no wish to leave. They live more attractions for Americans, unbelievably well within easy still standing watch on the Rhine peace time army in Europe, of joined the 62,000 U.S. troops spots.

The black leaders did point out, however, that Marshall residents must face up to the fact there is a racial problem within the confines of the city.

The black leaders made it clear they want to see Marshall grow and prosper. They want to see members of their race get ahead and have the same opportunities as anyone else. They do not want trouble and they are doing their utmost to prevent Negro leader said the young blacks in Marshall have to have someone to look up to. He suggested that the black community is interested in having Negro doctors, dentists and teachers come to Marshall. He expressed the view these people will not come here unless they have some assurance they will be able to secure housing.

No owner of rental property can legally refuse to rent to an individual because of his race, creed or color. There is a federal law which prohibits such practices and this law is enforced by both federal and state agencies.

I feel it is my duty as a newspaperman to point out the shortcomings of our community and encourage their elimination. Compliance with the laws of the land — federal, state and local — by all segments would certainly solve many of today's problems. Marshall is comprised of fine people of all races, creeds and colors and I am confident all of us have the good sense to live and work together for the good of all.

Racial discrimination in the housing field in regard to Negroes interested in moving to Marshall seems to be the major issue at this time. If it is not corrected then there will be other areas for complaint which will lead to unpleasantness which no one desires.

It is my sincere hope that no one in this fine city will harbor the view that just because someone happens to be black, white, yellow or red — or because a person is a Catholic, Protestant or Jew — they should be ostracized.

Our forefathers founded this great nation to get away from such people. Their good and bad in all segments of our society. I suggest you judge the individual on his merits and not on his race, creed or color.

The federal government announced recently it would add twenty-five Missouri counties, where there is no free food program, to its present list of counties, and that in these twenty-five it would furnish the food and pay all costs of distribution.

Monroe County pays storage, distribution and other costs with county taxpayers money, with the food provided by the federal government.

Many of the counties now being added are as able, or more able, to pay those costs, as Monroe County.

Washington, D. C. — The movement of organized crime into the labor movement has been well documented in this column -- by my host, Victor Riesel, the Kefauver and McClellan Senate investigations, in the Valachi testimony, and in innumerable FBI investigations.

In a perversion of the traditional labor-management relationship, racketeers have gained control not only of the unions in an industry, but of the employers' associations as well. The same individuals negotiate on both sides of the bargaining table. The workers and the public consequently suffer.

An example of this "double-dealing" can be found at an Eastern airport, involving a lieutenant, or "caporegime," of the New York "family" headed by the late Vito Genovese.

The underworld figure, who has since been convicted on charges of interstate transportation of stolen property and conspiracy, has gained virtually absolute control of labor-management activities.

He had strong influence over both the local union and an employer air freight association doing business at the airport.

He was a principal owner of an air freight trucking company operating out of the airport.

He was retained as a labor-management consultant by the air freight association.

Just as this shadowy underworld government has permeated labor, resulting in the defrauding of the wages of millions of honest workers, so organized crime has moved into legitimate businesses -- construction firms, coin machine companies, restaurants, sports, linen supply services, and even into the stock brokerage and bond brokerage fields -- hiking costs of goods and services to the consumer.

No business is safe or immune from the "brotherhood." Every person, either directly or indirectly, is affected adversely everyday of his life by the almost universal activities of organized crime.

Most people now recognize the existence of organized crime, the impetus given to it during the prohibition era, and its hold on such criminal activities as smuggling, narcotics, prostitution, and gambling. But it is only within the past several decades that the American people have begun to realize the extent of its overall infiltration into their everyday lives.

I deliberately omitted the name of the underworld lieutenant to who I referred because the American public has been accustomed to dealing with criminals in the ordinary sense. Crime has been pictured as individual acts of depredation, or of "gangs" composed for a specific criminal transaction.

We have always assumed that this administration's "iron criminal, or the "gang's" leaders, man," or "iron chancellor," would solve the problem. In the Pres. Nixon's "eminence grise," case of the "combine" this has not been the case. The There is evidence that his Justice Department on many issues, has racketeer will not rid that not exactly enthralled some of airport of organized crime the President's advisers, both to replace him, and business will continue as usual.

Those of us who have covered crime believe he is the toughest "gang buster" ever to head the Dept. of Justice. Since this is an absolute statement there positively will be disagreement. So it is in this arena that I turned to the Attorney General to ask, in view of the intense debate and feelings, whether there is a national board of directors running organized crime and whether there is a "Mr. Big."

Here is his reply, written exclusively for this column, amid the tense debate over methodology in the new criminology, no-knock police action and the containment of drug-fueled crime on the streets:

Meanest Mother Turns Out Solid, Worthwhile Citizens Who Are Proud

Dear Ann Landers: We had the meanest mother in the world. While the other kids on our block enjoyed candy for breakfast, we had to eat cereal. They were treated to soda pop and pizza for lunch. We were stuck with sandwiches and milk. Our mother insisted on knowing where we were at all times -- like criminals on parole. She had to know where we were going and who we were with every time we left the house. We had orders when to be home and no excuses were acceptable. She also broke the child labor law. She made us work. We were forced to wash dishes, make beds, cook, sew and do all the rotten jobs, like take out the trash and keep up the yard. Our mother must have stayed up nights thinking up things for us kids to do. We never had a minute to just relax, or fool around.

Ma was like a judge when it came to "facts." WE had to tell everything exactly perfect -- the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. She should have been on the Supreme Court. By the time we were teen-agers our friends knew we had a very mean mother. When guys came to get Sis and me Ma embarrassed them to death by making them come to the door. Other girls could run out to the car when they heard a horn toot but Ma wouldn't stand for any horn blowing in front of our house. Our girl friends were allowed to date at 12 and 13 but we couldn't go out until we were 15.

As you can guess, our mother was a complete failure. None of us kids were ever arrested for rioting. We never spend a night in jail. You can't imagine the shame we felt when other kids told about breaking out and getting busted in drug raids. We had to sit there like squares without a blamed thing to tell.

My brothers both served in the Air Force even though they were very much opposed to the war. They even took part in some peaceful anti-war demonstrations. But somehow they just couldn't see burning their draft cards or going to Canada and giving up their citizenship forever. They said it was too much like coping out. I've given a lot of thought to how I'm going to raise the kids I hope to have. Although our mother was awful mean I'll have to admit we all turned out pretty well. None of us kids ever went the pill or drug route. We all seem to be in good shape, physically and emotionally. And each of us has a pretty good idea of what we want to do without our lives. Most of our friends whose mothers were easy going or too busy to pay attention to them are having a lot of trouble. I've decided if my kids think half as much of me as I think of my mother I'll be very proud. I guess I'll be a mean mother, too. --Looking Ahead

Dear Looking: I've received complaints about "mean mothers" from every state in the union. Your letter said it best. Thanks for writing. Confidential to Victim of Inequity and Injustice: Your story is one of the saddest (and one of the oldest) known to man. But it was ever thus. A wise philosopher once observed, "Love, like money, is always easiest to get for those who need it least."

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze And You -- For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Extension Association Holds State Meeting

Mrs. Harold D. Rogers of Sikeston and Mrs. Charles Grojean Sr. of Chaffee were among the nearly three hundred Missouri women who took part in the recent annual conference of the Missouri Extension Homemakers Association (MEHA). The meeting on the University of Missouri-Columbia campus was divided between talks on world-wide concerns and workshops on environment, changing roles in family life, traffic safety in Missouri and cultural enrichment opportunities.

State officers, county council presidents and representatives of MEHA had 139 representatives of voluntary women's organizations as guests for the first MEHA Guest Day, July 9, middle day of the three-day conference.

Participants in the workshop on changing roles in family life considered the consequences of women's demands for equal rights in employment and in the home. Changing male-female roles in the family will have implications for child rearing and in the socialization of coming generations. Leader for the workshop was Mrs. Eileen Lineberry, director, continuing education for women, Columbia Campus.

In the final session, Mrs. Erwin Apprill of Higginsville, secretary, presented her brief history of the Missouri Extension Homemakers Association based on state and individual club records. Dr. Mary Nell Greenwood, University director of continuing education for women, challenged participants to take the initiative in creating better communities by working as individuals and organizations to solve major local problems.

New executive board members were installed at the conference. Officers are President, Mrs. Edward Dohrmann, Route 1, Chesterfield; first vice president, Mrs. W. D. Pipkin Jr., Route 7, Springfield; second vice president, Mrs. John Horine, Richwoods; secretary, Mrs. Erwin Apprill, Higginsville; and treasurer, Mrs. G. B. Hagerman, Wayland. District representatives are: Northwest, Mrs. John House, Denver; northeast, Mrs. Delbert Wilson, Knox City; southeast, Mrs. James New, Lilbourn; southwest, Mrs. Earl Cobb, Warrensburg, and south central, Mrs. Warren Pritchett, Waynesville. Editor of the MEHA publication, the Missouri Homemaker, is Mrs. George Mustermann, New Florence.

Objects of the MEHA are to foster development of children, homes and family life, to cooperate in any movement that benefits the people of the county, state or nation or that is of international importance, and to coordinate and stimulate efforts of Extension Homemakers Clubs in building significant educational programs. Membership includes every woman who is a member of an Extension Homemakers Club that cooperates with University Extension.

Sarasota, July 31, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin W. Taber and daughter Cindi recently visited the state-owned Ringling Museums in Sarasota while vacationing on Florida's lower west coast.

Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done. --(Matt. 6:10).

God's plan for man is completely good. God made man to experience success, happiness, peace and fulfillment, and placed within us the perfect means to obtain these goals. But we must follow the will of God as he has revealed it through our minds and hearts. As we follow His will, we are inspired to think loving and kind thoughts. And as the day follows the night, good is made manifest in our experience.

Beach-Bound? Take Along A Terry

STYLISH SANDPIPER—Cotton terry shapes a brief midriff top and long flare-leg pants for the fashionable beachcomber. Ideal for luxurious lounging on the sand after a swim, the outfit comes in white, navy, yellow, blue, red, or driftwood. It's by White Stag.

THE NEWEST—Pairing up with a scooped midriff top are "girl shorts"—versatile pull-ons that are shorts in front and a skirt in back. In multi-colored stripes of cotton terry, both are by White Stag.

It's that time of year when sandy white beaches and the soothing sound of the surf are no longer idle winter dreams but delightful summer realities.

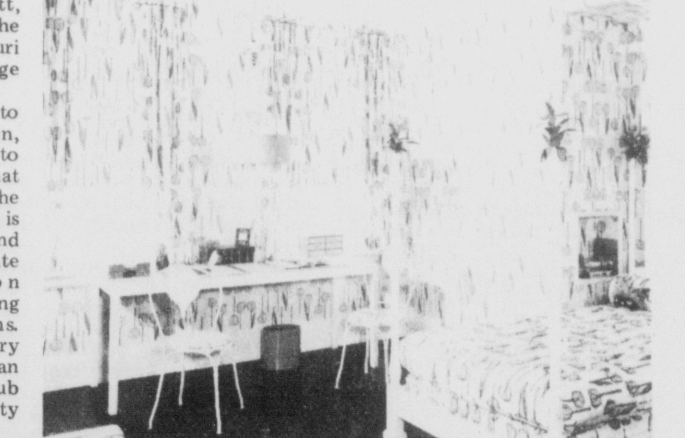

If you plan to be a summer 70 siren, rest assured. While you were dreaming of a whole summer of sun days, sports-wear designers were working to make those dreams come true in style. What they've come up with is enough to make any career girl leave her typewriter and head for the beach.

This year you can leave your beach towel at home, unless you want to sit on it. Summer's most smashing portswear looks are decked out in carefree cotton terry—fabric known for its ability to soak up moisture as well as fashion.

The newest terries shape up in bold stripes and luscious solids for pull-on flare-leg pants, scooter skirts, short shorts, breezy midriffs, and classic tank tops. In lighter weights and soft, fine textures, they have a new-found style and zip that make getting dry after a swim a luxurious experience.

Designers see the new cotton terry fashions as part of the whole new approach to soft casual clothes for every hour of the day. Some predict they'll be worn away from the beach for twilight and evening hours as well as day.

So be advised: if you want to vacation in style, take along a terry.

ONE-PATTERN EFFECT—You don't have to tiptoe through these tulips—they're ever-blooming in this room planned for teen-age sisters. Cotton splashed with Siamese pink tulips and brilliant green leaves is teamed up with matching wallpaper for a room-widening effect. The fabric is laminated to fashionable window shades and made into matching curtains and fitted bed coverlets for a fresh, crisp look.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What unique name do New Jersey county governments have?

A—New Jersey is the only state in which county governments are called "boards of chosen freeholders." This name comes from colonial days, when only freeholders (property owners) could hold public office.

Q—What determines the flavor of honey?

A—The flavor and color are influenced by the kind of flowers from which the nectar comes.

Q—Who was the last of the 400 hitters in major league baseball?

A—Ted Williams, present manager of the Washington Senators.

Move Nature Indoors And Refresh Home-bound, City-stressed Spirits

Where have all the gardens gone? The need for natural beauty is perhaps greater than ever time to lament or celebrate? This depends, in part, upon our closeness to trees, plants, and blossoming flowers. For aren't green growth and fragrance what spring and summer are all about?

Most of us are stranded, of course. Set apart. Fields and hills, woods and gardens have vanished in the urban sprawl. We are engulfed by steel, concrete, and cement. Yet, nature's beauty can still inspire us. In one bold gesture, and at remarkable low cost, we can move it indoors!

Indoor gardens have refreshed man's spirit and inspired his imagination for centuries. In Egypt, Japan, China; in ancient Persia, Greece, and Rome, unique patterns of indoor gardening developed, but their basic purpose was always the same: to provide a place of serenity and beauty separate and apart from the busy world, a place to nourish man's soul. The need for natural beauty is perhaps greater than ever time to lament or celebrate? This depends, in part, upon our closeness to trees, plants, and blossoming flowers. For aren't green growth and fragrance what spring and summer are all about?

Indoor gardens have refreshed man's spirit and inspired his imagination for centuries. In Egypt, Japan, China; in ancient Persia, Greece, and Rome, unique patterns of indoor gardening developed, but their basic purpose was always the same: to provide a place of serenity and beauty separate and apart from the busy world, a place to nourish man's soul. The need for natural beauty is perhaps greater than ever time to lament or celebrate? This depends, in part, upon our closeness to trees, plants, and blossoming flowers. For aren't green growth and fragrance what spring and summer are all about?

Twins Maintain Scoring Streak

By MIKE RECHT
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Minnesota Twins barely managed to keep their run-scoring streak alive, but still found it easier than keeping their pitcher's healthy.

After putting Dave Boswell on the 21-day disabled list earlier in the day, the Twins lost ace Jim Perry to a pulled groin muscle in the ninth inning before they completed a 21 victory over Milwaukee in the opener of their two-night

St. Louis Gets Combination

Power hitting and good pitching provided the St. Louis Cardinals with a 4-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and the Kansas City Royals with a 7-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox Monday night.

Carl Taylor hit a solo homer for St. Louis in the first and Julian Javier cracked one in the third. Jose Cardenal blasted a two-run shot in the third for all the Redbird scoring.

The only Philadelphia run off Mike Torrez, 89, came in the seventh.

In Chicago, Cookie Rojas got three hits and scored three times, and Bob Oliver belted a three-run homer to spark the Royals.

Bob Johnson, 47, pitched a four-hitter for Kansas City.

Rojas tripled in the first and scored on an infield out. He singled in the fifth and scored on Ed Kirkpatrick's single. And he doubled in the seventh when the Royals posted four runs, three on Oliver's homer.

Tonight in Philadelphia, Jerry Reuss, 24, pitched for St. Louis against Chris Short, 5-11.

At Chicago, Bill Butler, of Kansas City, 3-9, will match pitches with Tommy John, 9-12.

Card Streak Brings Back Memories

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Red Schoendienst, Bob Gibson, Mike Shannon, Julian Javier, Dal Maxvill and Lou Brock all remember 1964. As a matter of fact it's that 1964 that keeps their flickering 1970 National League 802-inning hopes alive.

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-1, Monday night for their fifth straight victory and seventh in the last eight games. The streak stirred St. Louis tid, out that season six years ago.

In 1964, the Cardinals were 11 games behind the league-leading Phillies on Aug. 20, five games behind with 10 games left to play in September, and won the pennant by a game. With Monday night's win, St. Louis is nine and one-half games behind the frontrunning Pittsburgh Pirates.

Can the Cardinals pull another miracle? Schoendienst, Gibson, Shannon, Javier, Maxvill and Brock, the only survivors of '64, have vixing thoughts on the subsp.

Manager Schoendienst ng a coach in 1964, said it's possible histd oocould yet win the Eastern Division. "It's going to be a little harder than in 1964, because then we had only two clubs to catch, the Phillies and Cincinnati. Now we have to catch four."

Schoendienst said St. Louis is playing better baseball of late, not giving away as many runs.

"We really haven't been the best club on defense and we have had trouble with our pitching. But the closer you get the more enthused you get. Lightning can strike twice."

Gibson was a little more realistic. The star pitcher commented, "We're not looking that far ahead. Our pitching and hitting are going good. Those are the only visible signs. We've had a tough time getting ourselves together. I don't think we can do it."

Shannon said, "Before we talk about 1964, we have to get that winning streak in double numbers. Talk to me about it then."

Javier felt the Cards have lost a lot of tough games and that maybe their luck is changing.

"There are a lot of games left and nobody knows about this game," he said. "But we had better pitching in 1964."

Maxvill was the most enthusiastic, commenting, "We're not out of it yet. Sure, there's a lot of ground to be made up, but some of us saw 1964 happen. We know it can happen."

Brock shook his head when 1964 was brought up. "It's too soon to tell, too soon to tell."

Braves Split With Houston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Out of the shambles of a lost weekend, like a phoenix rising from the ashes of what once was Atlanta's pitching staff, suddenly appeared Ron Reed.

Shell-shocked by 37 runs in three games—the last seven in Houston's 7-5 opening game victory Monday night, Braves' Manager Luman Harris probably still can't believe what happened when he handed the ball to Reed for the second game against the Astros.

A six-hitter is what happened. A real, honest goodness six-hitter, and it was a complete game too. That, in case you haven't been paying attention, hasn't been routine around the Braves lately.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, Chicago whipped New York 6-1, Montreal blanked Pittsburgh 8-0, St. Louis battered Cincinnati 10-3 and San Francisco beat Los Angeles 5-2.

In the American League, Washington blanked Detroit 4-0, Kansas City trimmed Chicago 7-2, Minnesota split a doubleheader with Milwaukee, winning 2-1 before losing 4-2, and California blanked Oakland 5-0. The other teams had the day off.

Reed, whose broken collarbone made a mess of Atlanta's pitching before the res of the National League got around to it, throttled Houston and got all the runs he needed on consecutive second inning homers by Orlando Cepeda and Hal King.

It was only the fourth complete game in the last month for the Braves' pitching staff which was shredded for 30 runs in two games against the Pirates Saturday and Sunday.

It looked like more of the same when the Astros bounced Cubs. Chicago moved to within 2 1/2 games of first place but in the first game of the doubleheader, Bob Watson drove pitcher Bill Hands was taken to in three runs with a single and a Roosevelt Hospital suffering home run and pitcher George Culver's two-strike bunt single started the winning rally in the fourth inning. But Reed turned Jose Cardenal to beat the tables in the nightcap. Philadelphia, Mike Torrez Pittsburgh roared into Montreal and was promptly cooled off by Dan McGinn, who spun a three-hitter for the Expos. It was McGinn's first five runs with a homer and a victory since July 8 and his first complete game since May 15 when he also beat the Pirates.

Bob Bailey hammered a three-run homer that climaxed a six-run Expo explosion in the fourth inning. McGinn, meanwhile, did not allow a hit after the second against the Pirates, who had 37 hits in their two games over the weekend against Atlanta.

The Pirates' one-game lead in the NL East remained intact when New York bowed to Chicago and Ferguson Jenkins on a three-hitter.

Jenkins held the Mets hitless for six innings and Johnny Callison tagged a homer for the Cubs. Chicago moved to within 2 1/2 games of first place but in the first game of the doubleheader, Bob Watson drove pitcher Bill Hands was taken to in three runs with a single and a Roosevelt Hospital suffering home run and pitcher George Culver's two-strike bunt single started the winning rally in the fourth inning. Homers by Willie McCovey and Jim Hart moved San Francisco past Los Angeles as rookie Lee Pitlock bested Bill Singer. McCovey's 26th of the year climaxed a four-run first for the Giants.

Today's Oldsmobile: The year-end buy that pays off three ways.

Cutlass 5 Holiday Coupe

1. You save big money when you buy it. The 4th Annual Year-End Sale is on now at your Oldsmobile dealer's—and the savings are substantial on every new Olds in his stock!

2. You save even more money as you drive it. Olds is famous for features that help keep costs down. Like Positive Valve Rotators in every V-8 for peak performance thousands of miles longer... rustproof inner fenders... aluminum exhaust system... bias-belted tires... many more!

3. You get a nice bonus at trade-in time. An Olds is a good investment—traditionally you get more of your dollars back when you're ready to trade the next time around.

If you think you can't afford an Oldsmobile... it's time to think again.

4th Annual YEAR END SALE

BUILT ON FIVE ACRES of ground, with plenty of room to display models of Ford cars, the Sikeston Motor Company, has a spacious building for its service department as well as office and display rooms.

Sikeston Motor in Its New Quarters

The official opening of Sikeston Motor Company Monday at 9 a.m., brings to the Sikeston area, one of the largest automotive dealer display areas between St. Louis and Memphis. The company has a Lincoln, Ford, Mercury dealership.

On hand to do the ribbon cutting were co-owner Bryce Fisher, Mayor Taylor Noles and City Manager W. Raymunt Miller. The Ford agency moved from quarters at 127 West Malone to the new location on South Main street, over the weekend. The former quarters are owned by Ralph Williams of Cape Girardeau.

$272,571 Paid for Welfare

NEW MADRID — John M. Underwood, Sr., director of the County Welfare office, reported the county recipients of assistance from office for July were paid a total of $272,570.60.

The greatest part of the above amount went to those on old age assistance list of the welfare agency.

There were 1,534 on the old age assistance rolls and they received a total of $112,866. The average old age assistance checks were $73.58.

A total of 713 New Madrid county families with 1,973 children received $81,556 in the aid to dependent children category and received an average of $114.38 per family check.

A total of 242 persons received permanent and total disability assistance totaling $16,970 and the average check per month was $70.12.

New Madrid County had 79 persons on the aid for the blind list and each received $90 per month for a total of $7,110.

From general relief funds 232 families of 252 persons received a total of $15,721 or an average check of $62.38 per person.

A total of $37,795.45 was expended under the vendor programs for all categories of assistance. These were the Five acres of grounds enables the firm to display all model cars and trucks on the same lot compared to two lots used formerly.

The owners, Fisher and Clint Elledge, came to Sikeston from Lutesville, Jan. 1, 1965.

The spacious building covering 23,800 square feet, houses a large display room, individual offices, and a large business office.

The service department has nine drive-in entrances, each with three stalls deep, to accommodate automotive services for as many as 27 cars at one time.

The firm employs 24.

Three Teach Graduate Course

HOWARDVILLE — Dr. George S. Reuther, Jr., superintendent of schools, announced that Dr. W. W. Davidson, Dr. Ben O. Hutton, and Dr. James G. Middleton of Southeast Missouri State College are teaching the graduate course in individual testing for the district. The course began July 28 at the University of Missouri graduate center with 15 students.

He also announced that J. D. Washington had resigned as principal of the Howardville middle school and that Clarence Vaughn had been appointed his successor.

hospital and nursing home vendor programs. There were 77 children under child welfare supervision during the month of July.

Services were given to 77 children and service completed to one child, leaving a caseload of 76 at the end of the month. Of these children now being given services, 56 are in the homes of their parents or residing with relatives, 13 are in foster boarding homes, 3 are in adoptive homes, and 4 are in non-relative homes.

The amount spent for room and board, clothing, medicine, dental care, and incidentals for the children under child welfare supervision from the New Madrid county court for the month was $276.07. The amount expended from state boarding funds was $276.08.

These are just rumors, and they are not true.

Social security contributions paid by employers, employees and the self-employed go to the Treasury where they are automatically divided between three trust funds — old-age and survivors insurance, disability insurance and hospital insurance. Medical insurance premiums which may be paid voluntarily beginning at age 65 go into another fund.

These four trust funds are kept separate from each other and from all other revenues collected by the federal government.

The money in each fund is used only to pay the benefits and operating expenses of that particular program. Money not currently needed for these purposes is invested in securities issued by the federal government.

In this situation, the trust funds are the lender and the U.S. Treasury is the borrower. The Treasury pays interest to the trust fund on the money borrowed and repays the principal when cash is needed by the trust fund.

Interest earned in this manner since the beginning of the social security program now totals over $12 billion.

Congress has kept the social security program operating on a pay-as-you-go basis. Increases in benefits have been accompanied by increased contribution rates to cover the cost.

The OASDI trust funds are actually sound. This means that the relationship between benefit levels and contribution rates is such that, over the long haul, income from contributions and interest can be expected to cover benefit payments and administrative expenses.

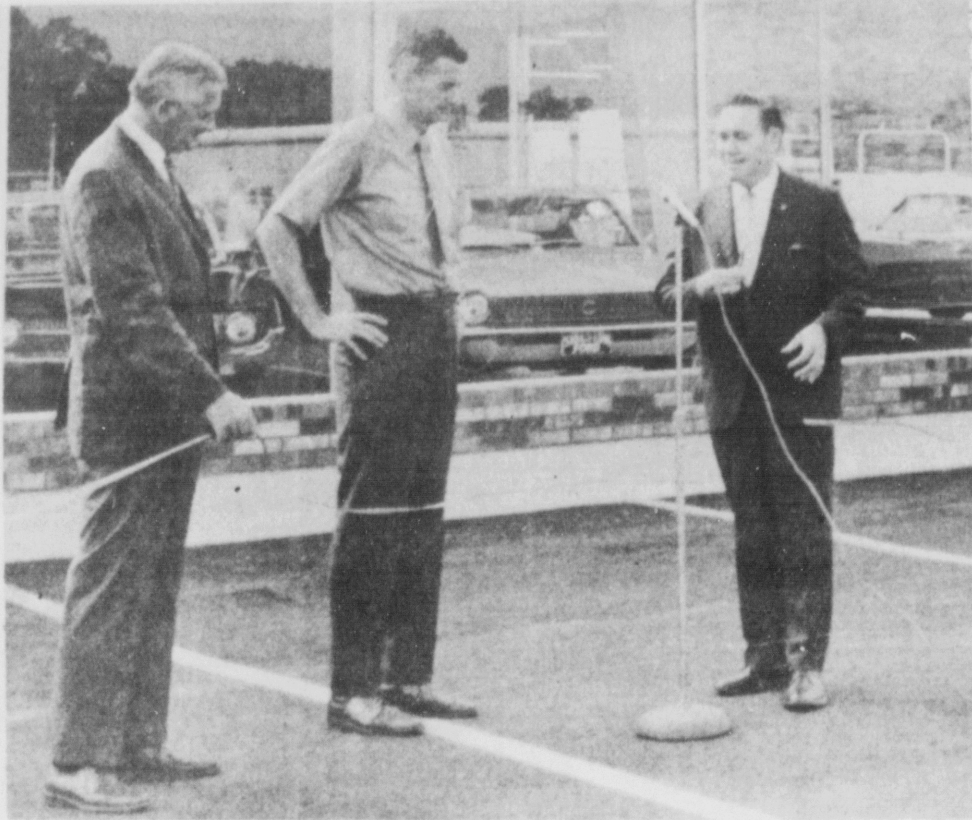

THE FUTURE What is the future of the social security program? This is a decision that the American people must make through their elected representatives. The alternatives, greatly simplified, are these:

1) We can retain the present benefit structure, with only minimal improvements, and provide for future cost-of-living increases. The payroll tax, increased to 6 or 6½ per cent each for employer and employee by 1980, can finance this kind of program for the foreseeable future.

2) Before switching to the automatic cost-of-living mechanism, we can raise benefits to a more adequate level, including a substantial increase in the present $55 minimum monthly payment.

To provide really adequate benefits and make other improvements in the program, it will be necessary either to eventually raise the payroll tax to levels that would be burdensome on the average employee or to have the federal government make a contribution to the social security system.

Social security is of vital importance to older Americans. I believe its benefits should be adequate enough to bear a relationship to the cost of a decent standard of living. If a reasonable payroll tax cannot finance these benefits, then I think the federal government should make up the difference.

Frankly Speaking

THOMAS F. EAGLETON
U.S. Senator—Missouri

IS YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY SAFE?

Frequently I receive inquiries from people who have heard dire things about the social security program — that the trust fund is running short, that social security contributions are being used to pay for the Medicare program, that the trust fund is being raided by the Treasury to support other government programs, etc.

These are just rumors, and they are not true.

Social security contributions paid by employers, employees and the self-employed go to the Treasury where they are automatically divided between three trust funds — old-age and survivors insurance, disability insurance and hospital insurance. Medical insurance premiums which may be paid voluntarily beginning at age 65 go into another fund.

These four trust funds are kept separate from each other and from all other revenues collected by the federal government.

Three Injured In Car Mishap

DEXTER — The highway patrol said a one-car accident Monday at 6:50 p.m. on route ZZ, six miles southwest of Dexter, sent three to the Dexter Memorial hospital.

Roger Dale Neely, 22, Malden, lost control of a 1965 Chevrolet, ran off the road and overturned in a ditch, the state patrol reported.

The driver received a fractured left arm. Two passengers, both of Malden were injured. Patsy Neely, 22, received chest bruises and scratches; Debbie Phillips, 14, a back injury.

Electrified Cars Used on Irish Rioters

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops added electrified armored cars to their anti-riot arsenal early today as they fought Roman Catholic demonstrators for the fourth consecutive night.

The cars, which shock anyone touching them, broke through barricades in the Falls Road area, drove over barbed wire and sent sparks flying after fleeing rioters.

POLLY'S POINTERS Souvenir Leather Purses Convert to Other Uses

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. A. B. could use portions of her "souvenir" leather purses to make a wall hanging by creating a design to apply on colored burlap. Cut pieces from the leather to carry out the design and stitch them on with colored threads and yarns. Fringe the edges of the burlap. When leather is too thick for a strong needle to go through it, use a punch to make holes. Vary lengths of the stitches and colors, and sometimes overcast. A patchwork bag could be made by using this same technique.—GERTRUDE.

DEAR POLLY—If Mrs. A. B. wanted another purse, she could cut the good pieces from her souvenir bags into odd shapes for a crazy-quilt design and lace them together in the way hand-tooled purses and billfolds are made. The pieces would have to be cut to fit together somewhat like a jigsaw puzzle. A chain could be used for a handle with a flap over the opening. A zipper might be hard to install in heavy leather. A leather belt also could be installed with rings attached to the ends of the purse.—MRS. P. McI.

DEAR POLLY—Variety may be added to your wardrobe by making a detachable tab, approximately 5½x1½ inches from scraps of dress material. Whenever the whim to wear a neck scarf strikes you, this tab can be pinned to the shoulder seam, middle front or side by means of small lingerie pins. The scarf is then threaded through this tab. A plain neckline dress can still be worn plain with beads or other jewelry when desired or worn with the very fashionable scarf. This is effective on double knits.—AGNES

Wyatt Charged After Accident

CHARLESTON — Charles W. Clark, 55, of Wyatt was arrested by police at 9:00 p.m. Thursday and charged with driving while intoxicated, involved in an accident.

Police said Clark, driving a 1964 Ford, stopped at traffic signals at Main and Commercial and after the light changed, backed his car into a 1969 Volkswagen driven by Buford Helms of Charleston. Clark drove off and was pursued by Helms, who called police.

Clark posted $125 bond in police court Friday and asked for a continuance until Aug 5 to hire an attorney.

The Volkswagen received $100 in damage to the front end. The Ford was not damaged. Willie George Robinson, 18, Charleston was arrested at 7:30 p.m. Friday night on a charge of disturbing the peace and paid a $19 fine in police court Saturday.

Fred Allen Reynolds, 19, Charleston, arrested at 8:45 p.m. Friday paid a $19 fine in police court Saturday on a charge of drunk and destruction of private property.

Present Version of Farm Act Called Oppressive

PORTAGEVILLE — The present version of the 1970 agricultural act scheduled for consideration and vote Tuesday or Wednesday in the House of Representatives is extremely oppressive to Missouri cotton producers, Jack Hutchison, Chairman of the executive Committee of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association said today. Shortly prior to July 21, three basic changes were incorporated in the legislation.

"First, Release and Reapportionment was inserted for three years, a process which allows low producing acreage to be released to county ASCS offices and with said officers' permission to be then transferred to other areas of the state that in many instances can produce six or more times the yield per acre," he said. Missouri has no area which would need or want to release their cotton allotment.

"Secondly, the administration announced an administrative agreement allowing two or more rows to be followed or "skipped" in fields of cotton and to be counted as the set aside requirement of 33 1/3 per cent of the allotment.

The cooler nights later in the spring and earlier in the fall in Missouri does not permit the necessary growing period for the Missouri producer to benefit from this practice. Instead of benefiting from a 50 per cent yield increase or more, the Missouri producer would have to set aside acrea up to 33 1/3 per cent of his allotment and maintain it fallow.

"Thirdly, the concept of maintaining the 1970 projected yield during 1971-1973 was replaced by a moving three year acreage (planted) to upland cotton during the three preceding years..." which in effect would give those who benefit in yield of 50 per cent and more from the purely administrative legislative, cultural practice of "skip row" plantings, a higher government production support payment per acre than others and this would be almost uniformly true of Missouri.

"Lastly, the combined yield increase of the aforementioned recent changes would serve, everything else being equal, to force the Secretary of Agriculture to reduce on an equal percentage the base acreage allotment of all states for 1972 and 1973 which would weigh heavily on the Missouri producers who under the current status of the bill receive no compensating factors.

"Fortunately the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, the Missouri Farmers Association, and the Missouri Farm Bureau recognize and agree on many shortcomings of the bill and especially in regard to the current inequity suffered by our Missouri cotton producers and are working together toward a positive approach to equitably compensate not only Missouri producers but all producers so affected.

"Congressman Bill D. Burlison, a member of the agricultural committee fought valiantly to improve the bill before its submission to the floor of the House.

"Its passage next week is questionable but regardless Missouri's Senior Senator Stuart Symington and Missouri's Junior Senator Thomas Eagleton are aware of the situation and deeply concerned. Efforts toward positive, corrective language are being thoroughly researched."

Soviets Show Interest In U.S. SALT Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets are showing serious interest in the United States' proposal to limit strategic missiles but have yet to commit themselves on its key features.

This initial Soviet reaction has emerged from accounts of the two formal meetings and other discussions at the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) at Vienna last week following the American offer.

The Russians were said to be seeking more information about the U.S. plan while neither committing themselves to it nor making polemic statements against it.

Washington officials therefore continue to be encouraged about the prospects for reaching an historic agreement on curbing the superpower nuclear arms race, though a formal pact would still seem to be many months away.

The Vienna talks are expected to recess this summer, then resume in the fall in Helsinki where the SALT talks began last year.

U.S. negotiator Gerard C. Smith set forth the U.S. proposal last January.

It would limit the number of long range offensive missiles to current stockpiles, or less, and would also place a ceiling on defense antiballistic missiles (ABM).

The most important feature of the plan, in the United States' view, would be its restraint on the Soviet SS-9 missiles which would be kept at their current number of about 300.

The huge SS-9 is rated by U.S. strategists as capable of knocking out the war-deterrent Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) in its silo. The Pentagon says the Soviets are pressing ahead with a buildup of their SS-9 force.

The U.S. proposal also is understood to offer the Soviets an option on the ABM—either ABMs on both sides, or limiting ABMs to national command centers such as the 64-launcher system now in place around Moscow.

This would give the Soviets a choice of dismantling their Moscow ABM system or allowing the Americans, who are just starting to build an ABM system, to construct one around Washington or some other command post.

Neither option appears to fit the controversial Safeguard ABM proposal now being debated in the Senate. The Safeguard sites in the administration-backed bill before the Senate are in the U.S. Northwest for protection of Minutemen there.

Supporters of the administration program said if the Soviets agree to a zero ABM pact, the U.S. Safeguard program could be abandoned without jeopardizing United States security.

If the Soviets opt for a national command authority ABM, administration backers said, the U.S. Safeguard program could be inexpensively relocated because the only installation work done on the Safeguard so far is tow holes in the ground.

Iraq Pressured to Back Nasser Bid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Libya and the Soviet Union put pressure on Iraq today to get behind President Gamal Abdel Nasser in his coming indirect negotiations with Israel.

As defense and foreign ministers of some Arab states gathered in Libya to discuss strategy in the wake of Israel's acceptance of the U.S. cease-fire proposal, Libyan strongman Muammar Kadafi conferred in Cairo with the Egyptian president prior to visiting Baghdad.

Meanwhile, the Soviet government issued an "urgent invitation" for an Iraqi delegation to visit Moscow Tuesday. The Soviets were expected to threaten to reduce military and other aid to Iraq unless the Iraqis eased their opposition to the American proposal and the Egyptian and Jordanian acceptance of it.

Iraq and Algeria both announced they would boycott the meeting of Arab ministers opening in Tripoli today, and Syria was expected to follow their lead.

That would leave only Egypt, Jordan, Sudan and Libya represented.

Nasser said in a statement he was "astounded" by the Iraqi attacks on Egypt for accepting the proposal for 90-day ceasefire to improve the climate for a new attempt at mediation by U.N. envoy Gunnar J. Jarring. Nasser said Iraq should turn its attention to military action against Israel instead of criticizing Egypt's diplomatic position.

Jarring arrived in New York to discuss "possible next steps" following the acceptance by Egypt, Jordan and Israel of the American proposal. The proposal calls on these three main adversaries in the Middle East to "begin to work out under Ambassador Jarring's auspices the detailed steps necessary" to carry out the 1967 Security Council resolution that laid down principles for an Arab-Israeli peace settlement. It calls for Israel's withdrawal from territory seized in the 1967 war and Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist as a state within secure boundaries.

Amid the talk of cease-fire and the diplomatic maneuvering, military action continued along Israel's frontiers and the Suez Canal.

The Israeli Command aid mortar fire from Lebanon wounded two Israeli soldiers at the eastern end of the frontier, and Arab guerrillas from Lebanon blew up a tool shed at a settlement on that part of the border.

Israeli planes on Sunday attacked Egyptian positions along the canal and targets in Jordan. The Israeli command denied Cairo's claim of downing a Skyhawk.

Jordan said Israeli shelling destroyed part of an Ethiopian monastery and other churches in an area of Jordan five miles north of the Dead Sea. An Israeli spokesman denied the report, saying Israeli troops encountered guerrillas nearby and drove them back across the river into Jordan.

His wife is the former Kayoko Chien from Okinawa.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — U.S. Air Force Technical Sergeant James C. Humble, brother of Mrs. Juanita Whitehead of Rt. 4, Jasper, Tex., has arrived for duty at the U.S. Naval Air Station, Fla.

Sergeant Humble, a radio maintenance technician, is assigned to the 679th Radar Squadron, a unit of the Aerospace Defense Command which protects the U.S. against hostile aircraft and missiles. He previously served at Finley Air Force Station, N.D.

The sergeant is a 1953 graduate of Jasper High School. His wife, Sherma, is the daughter of Mrs. Pearl Sanders of 211 Grand Ave., East Prairie, Mo.

BILOXI, Miss. — Airman Richard T. Mooney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buford O. Mooney of 403 Rannells St., Dexter, Mo., has graduated at Keesler AF, Miss., from the training course for U.S. Air Force administrative specialists.

Airman Mooney, now proficient in the preparation of Air Force correspondence and reports, is being assigned to Richards Gebaur AFB, Mo., for duty with the 442nd Military Airlift Wing, a unit of the Air Force Reserve.

The airman, a 1966 graduate of Dexter High School, attended Central Missouri State College and is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Poplar Bluff Masons Plan New Temple

POPLAR BLUFF — Final plans for construction of a new Masonic Temple for Poplar Bluff Lodge No. 209, A. F. & A. M., were discussed at a meeting of members at the Masonic building on North Main Street last night and a financial campaign to raise needed funds is under way here.

Forty five members of the 409 member lodge heard an impressive discussion of Masonry and what it stands for by Claude E. Murray, Jr., former Poplar Bluff resident, a past Worshipful Master of the local lodge and now a resident of Florissant.

Estimated cost of the new temple is $120,000. The building will be erected on a two and a half acre tract purchased by the lodge from Mrs. Ernest Holland about 18 months ago.

The site is on North Main Street a short distance from Barron Road. The modern brick and concrete masonry building will be 106 by 87 feet in size and WHOLE LOT OF SHAKIN' will be going on when famed Memphis singer Jerry Lee Lewis takes the stage in an all-county show at the Mid-South Fair. Lewis will share the billing with Country TV star Bill Anderson, Jan Howard and the Po' Boys for performances at 4 and 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 3, in the tickets are $1.50, $3.50 and $3 and are on sale at the Coliseum and Central Ticket Office in downtown Goldsmith's.

Jerry Lee Lewis To Take Stage at Mid-South Fair

MEMPHIS — A volatile and vibrant entertainer who has run the gamut of rock, pop and country and now one of the great names in music will bring his special style to the Mid-South Fair this year.

He's Memphis Jerry Lee Lewis and he will share headline status with Bill Anderson and the Po' Boys in a big country music show closing the nine-day fair on Saturday, Oct. 3. The show will also include David Houston, Connie Smith and Jan Howard.

Just a short step behind Johnny Cash in current world record sales, Lewis will perform at two shows, 4 and 8 p.m., in the air-conditioned Mid-South Coliseum. Ticket prices are $4.50, $3.50 and $3 and they are on sale at the Coliseum and the downtown ticket office in Goldsmith's.

Jerry Lee Lewis came out of Ferriday, La., son of a carpenter, to make it big a dozen years ago with multi-million sellers such as "Whole Lotta of Shakin' Goin' On" and "Great Balls of Fire". Early in 1965 came his full entry into the rampaging country field and instant success was the result of "Another Place, Another Time" and "What Made Wilkyuee Famous".

Jerry Lee beats a wild, wild piano while singing — a piano which has the customary bench but he doesn't spend much time on it amidst gyrations which have made him famous.

What little respite he gets from a busy road, night club and recording schedule is spent with his wife and two children in his pool-equipped home in Memphis.

Seats Are Assigned The individual seats in the U.S. Senate are numbered and assigned on request of senators in order of their seniority. Democrats occupy the west side of the chamber, on the vice-president's right; Republicans sit across the main aisle to his left.

will include lodge and social rooms, a kitchen, storage rooms and all facilities required and what it stands for by Claude E. Murray, Jr., former Poplar Bluff resident, a past Worshipful Master of the local lodge and now a resident of Florissant.

The Poplar Bluff Masonic Lodge was founded May 31, 1861 and has outgrown its present temple which was opened in December of 1952 after the structure had been purchased from the Charles Miller family and remodelled for lodge hall purposes.

Several member teams are serving on the building finance committee and will start calls on members soon.

Lone Clue In Lucier Bomb Case

CLAYTON, Mo.(AP) — After 10 days of investigation, police report their only significant clue to the murder of Phillip J. Lucier is a mysterious man seen sitting in the telephone executive's car shortly before it was blown apart by a bomb.

There is little else to go on and "There really is no new development," says Police Maj. Herbert Johnson.

Lucier, 48, co-founder and president of the Continental Telephone Corp., died July 24 when a black powder bomb exploded directly under the driver's seat of his car. Continental is the nation's third largest phone company.

Lucier had just finished lunch at the Pierre LaCade Building with two Continental vice presidents, James L. Robb and James V. Napier. Robb and Napier were standing outside the car as Lucier turned on the ignition, saying he would get the air conditioner going since it was a hot afternoon.

The explosion ripped a wide hole in the car seat and shattered the rear window and windshield. Robb and Napier were blown back by the blast, but escaped injury.

Johnson has directed the investigation with seven men from his department and an equal number from the St. Louis area major case squad, which withdrew Sunday. Normally the squad devotes only five days to a case.

The investigators have interviewed more than 200 persons and have taken statements from 30 of them, Johnson said, adding that additional interviews are scheduled this week.

St. Louis County Police determined the bomb was made from a piece of cast iron pipe with steel, threaded caps wired to a windshield wiper fuse slot. "It was a very professional job and could have been installed in a few minutes," Johnson said.

Capt. Nicholas Valenti, director of the major case squad, said the only hint of progress in the investigation has been testimony of one witness who said he saw a man in a business suit sitting in Lucier's car about 30 minutes before the explosion.

The witness was identified only as from out of town. Police said the witness's description was vague and only fragmentary fingerprints were lifted from Lucier's car.

Continental has posted a $50,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for Lucier's murder. Lucier was the father of 11 children.

FIREMEN ON CALL ROME (AP) — When a fire engine races through the streets of Rome it's 2-1 the destination is not a fire. The firemen are on call for almost every emergency, from rescuing tree cats to opening apartments for people who have lost a key. Rome had nearly 6,000 calls last year, about 2,000 were for fires in the city where Nero fiddled to the flames in the year 64.

"Big fires are rare," says Col. Michele Stella, a fire chief. "I only remember a fire in the 20 years I have been here. And I don't remember anyone dying in the big fires in the Rome area."

Most buildings are of brick, stone and marble.

Q—Who is the only person to win the U.S. Open, the British Open, the U.S. Amateur and the British Amateur tournaments in one year?

A—The American golfer, Bobby Jones, in 1930.

Universities Heeding New Studies Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's state universities are responding to student demands for more relevant studies and a greater voice in designing their education programs with a wide variety of new course offerings, a new study shows.

The National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, in a survey of its 114 members, said new courses range from one in philosophy at the University of Nebraska that will go into sexual morality, drug abuse, racism and violence to a community service program at the University of North Carolina where students can earn up to $1,000.

Students have demanded on many campuses a voice in shaping what they study to obtain their degrees. The University of Hawaii, Cornell University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology have announced new programs giving students a voice in what subjects they will take to earn their majors.

At the same time, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the University of Rhode Island said students would have more freedom in selecting their courses.

There appears to be a rush on most campuses to new courses in environmental control and ethnic studies.

Soviets Spy On Firing of U.S. Missile

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — With an observing Soviet spy ship kept at a distance by a U.S. destroyer, the nuclear submarine James Madison today successfully unleashed the Navy's new multiple warhead Poseidon missile.

After the firing, the Russian fishing trawler moved in and crewmen scooped up pieces from a plastic membrane pierced by the missile when it broke out of its launching tube in the deck of the Madison. The pieces floated to the surface.

To do so, the trawler, the Laptev, maneuvered near a Navy support ship, the USS Observation Island, and Navy officials said it was violating international law by not giving the U.S. ship right of way.

The Madison fired the two-stage rocket launch.

It was the first submerged launching for the Poseidon.

The trawler forced an earlier postponement of the shot when it probed to within 200 yards of the James Madison during a practice firing run July 24.

The bullet-shaped Poseidon, being developed as a deadly deterrent in the U.S. nuclear arsenal, rode a column of steam from a launching tube in the deck of the Madison, spouted 130 feet to the surface and ignited a few feet above the water.

The rocket left a serpentine trail of white smoke in the sky as it huddled its multiple independently targeted reentry vehicle—MIRV—toward a target area far down the Atlantic tracking range. Officials said it was to travel nearly the missile's full range of 2,880 miles.

The Navy announced shortly after the 11 a.m. EDT firing that the launch phase of the test was successful. For security reasons, the performance of the MIRV warhead package, capable of packing 10 separate nuclear bombs, was not disclosed.

The launching originally was scheduled July 27, but was scrubbed after the trawler made the close approach to the Madison.

Q—Does the United States have a national flower?

A—No. The two flowers most often proposed are the American Beauty rose and the marigold.

Q—What insect can act as a living thermometer?

A—A chirping cricket. Crickets chirp faster as the temperature rises. On warm days, adding 37 to the number of chirps in 15 seconds will about equal the temperature.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Aug. 4, the 216th day of 1970. There are 149 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, Britain declared war on Germany, and the United States proclaimed its neutrality in World War I.
On this date:
In 1790, a U.S. Naval force which later became the Coast Guard was formed.
In 1892, in Fall River, Mass. Lizzie Borden was arrested for the hatchet murder of her father and stepmother.
In 1916, the United States bought the Danish Virgin Islands for $25 million.
In 1944, during World War II, the Nazis captured 14-year-old Anne Frank and seven other Jews in their hiding place in Amsterdam.
In 1963, it was reported that a former member of the so-called "Cosa Nostra" -- Joseph Valachi -- had been supplying the FBI information about a national crime syndicate.
In 1964, FBI agents found the bodies of three missing civil rights workers -- Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James Chaney -- in an earth dam near Philadelphia, Miss.
Ten years ago: The X-15 rocket plane set a speed record for a manned flight, streaking over Edwards Air Force Base in California at 2,150 miles an hour.
Five years ago: U.S. Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman said he doubted that the Soviets would use their influence to achieve a negotiated settlement in the Vietnam war.
One year ago: Hanoi radio announced that three American servicemen held captive by North Vietnam had been freed.

Florida to Ask Court to Bar Nerve Gas Dumping

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida said today he will seek every possible avenue (or injunction relief to prevent the Army from dumping 418 concrete coffins of obsolete nerve gas rockets in the Atlantic Ocean 282 miles off Cape Kennedy.

He urged a House oceanography subcommittee to join him in obtaining court orders against the dumping.

Kirk said the method the Army has selected to dispose of the gas is the most obvious way and that it may also be the most dangerous and the most costly.

The governor said that it appears possible that these materials might be moved toward the coast and that a part of the ocean might become contaminated.

Environment, he said, is at once Florida's greatest blessing and its most saleable product.

"Any damage to our environment even thought it produced no direct threat to human life or health—could have the most serious economic consequences."

"If the ocean along our East Coast became contaminated because something went wrong—if these missiles release their contents in a manner not planned—it could be disastrous for us," Kirk said.

"We can conceive no accident that would set the rockets off," Brig. Gen. William W. Stone told a House oceanography subcommittee Monday.

He said the Army had tested mock-ups of the rockets' 418 steel-jacketed coffins by setting off a 50-pound dynamite charge under one and firing armor-piercing bullets into another. Neither set off any test rockets which contained live explosives but none of the deadly, odorless gas, Stone said.

By contrast, however, Army Undersecretary Thaddeus R. Beal said the Army did not want to delay getting rid of the rockets because they were becoming more dangerous.

He was asked to delay the Aug. 10 date for shipping the rockets from Anniston, Md., and Lexington, Ky., to Sunny Point, N.C., where the Army plans to load them aboard a barge to be scuttled 282 miles off Florida in 16,000 feet of water.

"We do not wish to take the responsibility of doing that," Beal replied. "Our plan is to proceed."

He said a committee of civilian specialists headed by Dr. Paul Gross of Duke University had recommended the decade-old rockets be jettisoned "without delay" because their explosive and propellant charges might be getting dangerously unstable with age.

"Time is of the essence," Beal said. He said the Gross committee's first proposal—vaporizing the rockets in an underground nuclear blast—was rejected because the Atomic Energy Commission said it would take 15 months.

Later in Miami Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., said Army Secretary Stanley Resor had given him "absolute assurance" the rockets would not be shipped until the subcommittee hearings ended.

Beal said the Army planned to take maximum precautions in shipping the rockets. He said the trains would creep along at 3 miles an hour, following pilot trains that would scout the tracks for dangers. Aerial observers would keep watch over the trains by day and searchlights would probe the night, he said.

Beal said any damage to marine life would be minimal and preferable to endangering human life ashore. "The maximum adverse environmental impact would be temporary contamination of approximately one cubic mile of water," he said.

The obsolete M-55 rockets were encased in concrete 18 months ago when they showed signs of leaking. Public outcry prevented dumping them at sea, as had been done with other such obsolete gas weapons.

The Army has found other ways to get rid of similar weapons, but is stuck with the 418 steel-and-concrete coffins because it says it cannot safely dispose of them in any way but dumping.

Illinois Superhighway Link Criticized as Unjustified

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government spent nearly $40 million to build a superhighway as a favor for a new steel plant in rural Illinois, investigators have told Congress.

The 13-mile spur of the interstate highway system was criticized as unjustified in the report Monday by the General Accounting Office (GAO).

The Interstate 180 link, which was opened last fall, runs to the entrance of the new Jones & Laughlin steel plant at Hennepin, Ill.

The GAO, which acts as Congress' watchdog on federal spending, said the steel company's officials insisted on a four-lane superhighway spur as the price of locating the plant in the tiny Illinois town.

The interstate highway cost $47 million, with federal funds providing $39 million of the total and the state paying the rest.

The price was four times the average cost per mile nationally. Hennepin, which has a population of 391, is a village on the Illinois River about 100 miles southwest of Chicago.

The report criticized the Federal Highway Administration for turning down other requests for spurs in larger metropolitan areas like Tucson, Ariz., and Tacoma, Wash., while approving the I-180 route.

The superhighway link dips down from Interstate 80, a major cross-country route running west from Chicago, and ends in a cloverleaf at the entrance to the steel plant.

It includes a new bridge built over the Illinois River just west of the plant.

The GAO report said the steel firm's officials had demanded construction of the I-180 spur so that trucks would have an easy access to the main I-80 route to Chicago.

"No other interstate spur route has been constructed primarily to serve a private manufacturing company, and no other interstate spur route serves an area with such a small population," the GAO said.

Illinois officials, who made the commitment to Jones & Laughlin when the plant site was announced in 1965, originally suggested that Interstate 55 between Chicago and St. Louis be moved to run past Hennepin, a costly change that would have added an extra 24 miles to the route.

Federal highway officials in Washington refused to do that and proposed the special spur for the steel plant as a compromise at a meeting Jan. 13, 1967, the report said.

At one point, the GAO said, the interchange at the end of the route was redesigned especially at the request of the steel firm. Jones & Laughlin spokesmen had no immediate comment on the report.

The GAO said the Federal Highway Administration should evaluate all interstate spur requests on a national merit basis rather than giving piecemeal approval, case by case, as was done for I-180.

The Department of Transportation turned down the GAO recommendation in a letter included with the report. But it did not offer any reply to the criticism of the I-180 project.

This year marks the 25th anniversary of the death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. During this quarter of a century, a new generation of stamp collectors now is involved in the hobby to which the four-time President gave great impetus not only as a collector but as a designer.

He suggested the subject and design of more stamps than any other U.S. President. Roosevelt ordered the 50th anniversary stamp for the Pan American Union and specified that the three figures of the Botticelli painting be used. He designed the National Defense series and was instrumental in the Army and Navy stamp. Famous Americans, Presidential, Overrun Countries and Corridor stamps.

Few people know that FDR made the original sketch of the famous 1934 Mothers Day stamp which depicted the portrait of Whistler's Mother and carried the inscription "In Memory of the Mothers of America."

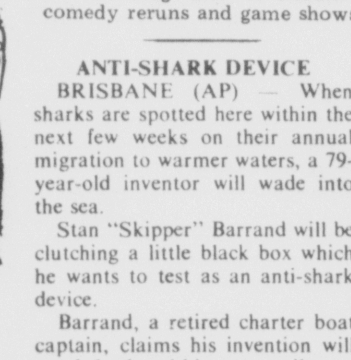

A sidelight to this issuance was the fact that Roosevelt's mother sent him six of the three-centers on an album page with the message "Presented to Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt by a fellow philatelist on Mother's Day 1934, as a token of esteem."

Ceylon has issued a new set of stamps dedicated to wildlife in that country. Each stamp shows a different animal in its habitat and in beautiful six color offset printing. The 5 cents illustrates wild buffalo. The 15 cents depicts the slender loris. The 50 cents portrays a herd of spotted deer. The highest value, the 1 rupee, features a leopard in reclining position. The stamps are available at your local dealer.

Zambia has announced the issuance of three new stamps to celebrate that nation's determination to provide all inhabitants with preventive health services. The values of these stamps, reports the Crown Agents Stamp Bureau, are 3 ngwee (cq), 15 ngwee and 25 ngwee. The new adhesives show a child being weighed, water being drawn from a well and a child being immunized.

POPULAR BLUFF — The highway patrol received confirmation from insurance company records of the death of Gloria Binschattel, 41, Mt. Morris, Mich., April 6.

She was a passenger in a 1964 Ford truck, driven by Woodrow Webber, 53, route one, Caruthersville, that collided with a 1969 Buick, driven by Arlie Alexander Jr., 18, Caruthersville.

The accident occurred at 11 p.m. on March 27, one route D in Pemiscot county, and one mile south of route U.

The injured woman was transferred from Pemiscot County Memorial hospital to Baptist hospital in Memphis.

Prospect Dim for Wallace in '72

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — From a slightly longer perspective, with new information still trickling in, George Wallace's very narrow squeak over Gov. Albert Brewer in Alabama looks more and more remarkably unlikely.

Wallace is estimated to have received about 75 per cent of the unusual 34,000 additional vote registered in the month between the May 5 primary, led by Brewer, and the June 2 runoff.

When the complete, official count is made, Wallace's victory margin may dwindle to a level between 27,000 and 30,000. It was 32,000 in the unofficial, incomplete tally.

Raging harder than ever is the argument where this leaves the 1968 third party presidential candidate in the national or even regional picture. A win by perhaps less than 51 per cent in a runoff is hardly a big smash for a man in his home state.

As I noted in an earlier report, Wallace will be hard put to make good on his crucial promises to roll back school integration advances mainly directed by the courts rather than his prime target, President Nixon.

In his campaign, he made a host of other promises, the net of which was he would offer Alabama citizens many more services while cutting their taxes. One weekly newspaper editor added up 40 promises he made that involve spending more money.

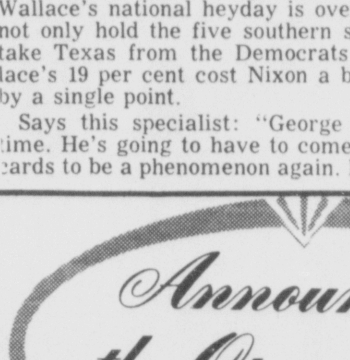

Evidently he is already hedging on the tax issue. He pledged himself to eliminate a 4 per cent sales levy on groceries. Lately he has been talking about holding this cut to "essential groceries," or maybe having it apply only for food-stamp (low income) customers. A full cut would deprive Alabama of some $43 million in revenue.

No one can be sure what Wallace will do on the racial scene, though the expectation is he will seek some sort of dramatic confrontation with the Nixon administration—possibly by reopening some closed all-black schools and ordering teachers to appear there.

Analysts disagree on the effect of any such moves, and on Wallace's general prospects for another presidential run in 1972. Some think he holds credibility with racial conservatives across the South just by trying, even if he loses the fights. Others believe his tight squeeze over Brewer is evidence he has already suffered severe loss of face.

One acute political specialist, not a southerner, thinks Wallace's national heyday is over, that Nixon in 1972 will not only hold the five southern states he won in 1968 but take Texas from the Democrats as well. In Texas, Wallace's 19 per cent cost Nixon a big slug of electoral votes by a single point.

Says this specialist: "George was a phenomenon last time. He's going to have to come up with some very good cards to be a phenomenon again. I doubt that he can do it."

Cereal Industry Discredits Earlier Witness Who Claimed Nutrition Low

WASHINGTON (AP)—The professor and syndicated newspaper columnist who testified before a Senate subcommittee today and said an earlier witness who testified cereals have almost no nutritional value didn't know what he was talking about.

"Breakfast cereals are good foods," declared Dr. Frederick J. Stare, a Harvard nutrition professor and syndicated newspaper columnist who testified on behalf of Kellogg Co. and National Biscuit Co.

"A breakfast of cereal and milk," said Stare, "any kind of milk, along with some fruit, a couple of pieces of toast, some polyunsaturated margarine, a little jelly of jam, is just as nutritious as a bacon-and-egg breakfast with fruit, toast and something to put on the toast."

Stare, one of four industry witnesses to appear before the Senate consumer subcommittee, said in prepared testimony that he had been shocked to read of a report given the panel last week by Robert Choate, a Washington citizen lobbyist who has spent the past three years studying national food policy.

Choate said most cereals on the market offered only empty calories and presented a chart ranking 60 dry cereals. He said his studies showed only the top nine "nutritionally meritorious."

The remainder—including such old standbys as Wheaties, Cheerios and top brands of shredded wheat—he ranked least beneficial, most costly and most heavily advertised on children's television.

Stare called Choate's chart meaningless and presented one of his own which he also promptly labeled meaningless.

He urged the subcommittee chaired by Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, to disregard it, too.

"It is meaningless," Stare said of Choate's chart, "because it ignores the way 95 per cent of breakfast cereals are consumed, that is, with milk. It is meaningless because it ignores a basic contribution of any cereal, energy value or calories. It is meaningless because it ignores the concept of the combination of cereal and milk, which is the way breakfast cereals are consumed."

Stare and J. P. MacFarland, chairman of the board of General Mills, Inc., took issue with Choate's charges that the industry, through massive advertising of low-nutritional products, is educating American children away from nutrition.

"Historically, our efforts have been designed to persuade consumers to eat a nourishing breakfast including cereals," said
